

ABSTRACT

Systems and methods are disclosed for providing an electronic file for intellectual property applications by receiving electronic file wrapper information from a patent office; and generating a single electronic document for an entry in the electronic file wrapper information, the document having all images for the entry consolidated therein.